After a long, successful career with plenty of wins - but none of them in majors - 41-year-old Mark O'Meara became a first-time major champion at the 1998 Masters. Quick Bits Winner: Mark O'Meara, 279Dates: April 9-12, 1998Location: Augusta National Golf Club in Augusa, Ga.Tournament number: The was the 62nd time the Masters Tournament was played. Mark O'Meara had been a very good player for a long time on the PGA Tour, but entering the 1998 Masters had not won a major championship. During 1998, O'Meara won two majors - this one, plus the British Open later in the year. Why was 1998 such a good year for O'Meara? Many believed - and O'Meara himself said as much - that O'Meara's friendship with the young star Tiger Woods played a role. O'Meara and Woods played together often, and competed against each other in practice rounds. O'Meara said that watching Woods' killer instinct and Woods' work ethic made him work that much harder himself. Whatever the reason, O'Meara won The Masters in 1998 by closing with rounds of 68 and 67, and by birdying the final hole to secure the victory. In fact, O'Meara birdied three of the final four holes on Sunday, capping his surge with a 20-footer on the 72nd hole for the one-stroke victory over David Duval and Fred Couples. O'Meara opened with a 74, five off the first-round lead. He jumped into the Top 10 with a second-round 70. And O'Meara's scores continued downward with a third-round 68. He stood tied for second heading into the final round, two strokes behind Couples. The 1998 Masters is also notable as the last time Jack Nicklaus was part of the story in the final round. Nicklaus, 56 years old, tied for sixth, four strokes off the lead, with a final-round 68. Gary Player, age 62, made the cut in a Masters for the last time this year. David Toms made his first-ever Masters appearance here, and it included a 64 in the final round. Toms finished tied with Nicklaus in sixth place. As defending champion, Woods slipped the Green Jacket onto O'Meara. Woods finished tied for eighth, six strokes behind O'Meara. He sealed this victory with a birdie on the final hole. Winner: Mark O'Meara, 279 Where it was played: Augusta National Golf Club, Augusta, Georgia Tournament dates: April 9-12, 1998 Leader after first round: Fred Couples, 69 Leader after second round: Fred Couples and David Duval, 139 Leader after third round: Fred Couples, 210What Happened at the 1998 Masters Tournament Mark O'Meara was a regular winner on the PGA Tour prior to 1998, but had no majors to show for it. Then he befriended Tiger Woods and played regular money matches against Tiger in practice. And then he won two majors in 1998 (including the British Open later in the year). Coincidence? O'Meara didn't think so. Fred Couples shared or held the lead the first three rounds. O'Meara moved into the Top 10 after a second-round 70, then moved into a tie for second place with a 68 in the third round. He started the final round two strokes behind Couples. But in that final round, O'Meara carded a 67 that was good enough to jump ahead of Couples (70) for the win. O'Meara birdied three of his last four holes, including the winning 20-foot putt on the 72nd hole. That made O'Meara the fifth player in the tournament's history to win The Masters by making birdie on his final hole, and just the third to make birdie to win on the final putt of the tournament. Jack Nicklaus, at age 58, finished sixth. Nicklaus' 5-under score of 283 was, at the time, the best score ever posted in The Masters by a golfer aged 50 or over (a record since broken). Matt Kuchar, age 19, earned low amateur honors. David Toms, in his first Masters appearance, tied the back nine record of 29 in his final-round 64. Defending champion Tiger Woods finished tied for eighth place, six strokes back of his friend O'Meara.1998 Masters Final Scores Mark O'Meara 74-70-68-67=279 David Duval 71-68-74-67=280 Fred Couples 69-70-71-70=280 Jim Furyk 76-70-67-68=281 Paul Azinger 71-72-69-70=282 David Toms 75-72-72-64=283 Jack Nicklaus 73-72-70-68=283 Justin Leonard 74-73-69-69=285 Darren Clarke 76-73-67-69=285 Tiger Woods 71-72-72-70=285 Colin Montgomerie 71-75-69-70=285 Per-Ulrik Johansson 74-75-67-70=286 Jose Maria Olazabal 70-73-71-72=286 Jay Haas 72-71-71-72=286 Phil Mickelson 74-69-69-74=286 Ian Woosnam 74-71-72-70=287 Scott McCarron 73-71-72-71=287 Mark Calcavecchia 74-74-69-70=287 Ernie Els 75-70-70-72=287 Scott Hoch 70-71-73-73=287 Willie Wood 74-74-70-70=288 a-Matt Kuchar 72-76-68-72=288 Stewart Cink 74-76-69-70=289 John Huston 77-71-70-71=289 Jeff Maggert 72-73-72-72=289 Steve Jones 75-70-75-70=290 David Frost 72-73-74-71=290 Brad Faxon 73-74-71-72=290 Michael Bradley 73-74-72-72=291 Steve Elkington 75-75-71-71=292 Jesper Parnevik 75-73-73-72=293 Andrew Magee 74-72-74-73=293 Phil Blackmar 71-78-75-70=294 Lee Janzen 76-74-72-72=294 Fuzzy Zoeller 71-74-75-74=294 John Daly 77-71-71-75=294 Davis Love III 74-75-67-78=294 Tom Kite 73-74-74-74=295 Bernhard Langer 75-73-74-74=296 Paul Stankowski 70-80-72-74=296 Corey Pavin 73-77-72-75=297 Craig Stadler 79-68-73-77=297 John Cook 75-73-74-76=298 Lee Westwood 74-76-72-78=300 a-Joel Kribel 74-76-76-75=301 Gary Player 77-72-78-75=302 Previous and next: 1997 Masters - 1999 Masters Page 2 The 2026 Masters Tournament will be the 90th time this golf tournament is played. Tiger-mania was in full swing at the 1998 Masters.Tiger Woods arrived at Augusta National Golf Club determined to defend his 12-shot, historic victory from the previous year. He was the No. 1 player in the world and had five top-10s in seven starts leading to Magnolia Lane, including a victory in the Johnnie Walker Classic, where he overcame an 8-shot deficit on the final day to defeat Ernie Els in a playoff to claim his first European Tour title.Woods was paired with reigning U.S. Amateur champion Matt Kuchar the first two rounds but never could call upon his best form. Woods never broke 70 and with rounds of 71-72-72-70, he finished in a tie for eighth place. While he made 18 birdies, he couldn’t overcome 13 bogeys to contend late on Sunday.“I squeezed the towel dry and got everything I could out of my game,” Woods said after the tournament. “It just didn’t happen. I’m human. The only thing I can say about my game is I go out and give it everything I’ve got.“Sometimes I’ll shoot like I did last year. Sometimes I’ll be like this year.”But the 1998 Masters was not without lasting memories for Woods.1998 MASTERS: Final leaderboardIn the final round, he was paired with Davis Love III, one group ahead of Ernie Els and Jack Nicklaus, who at age 58 was making a run for another green jacket 12 years after becoming the oldest Masters champion by winning his sixth in 1986.Playing in his 40th Masters and with a noticeable limp, the Golden Bear made birdie on four of his first seven holes in the final round to get within two shots of the lead of Fred Couples. But he couldn’t recapture his back-nine magic from 1986 and finished with a 68 to tie for sixth.But Woods will never forget Nicklaus’ charge.“It was ungodly,” Woods said. “Davis and I were just listening that day. When we got to 12, the two of us were making a mess of things and we just wanted to make sure we didn’t get run over. Jack was making a run and could win the tournament, and the last thing we wanted to do was hold him up.“We got a great view all day and every hole he was getting standing ovations, at every tee, every green. Down in Amen Corner, the echoes are so much louder and so cool. It was just so great that day, the atmosphere.”[jwplayer vCct3ba5-9JtFt04]JWoods also ended his day on a good note. He helped good friend Mark O’Meara slip on the green jacket. In his 15th start in the Masters, O’Meara became a major champion as he made three birdies in his final four holes to defeat Couples and David Duval by one shot.O’Meara canned a nine-footer for birdie on the 17th hole and then sank his winning birdie putt from 20 feet on the last.“I was a very proud friend,” Woods said. “It meant a lot to me and it will mean a lot to Mark to wear the jacket.”This is the fourth story in a series looking at each of Tiger Woods' appearances at the Masters.
